

Small Pox.

J O H N B O N D

HAS now a class under that operation—and shall continue inoculating for the same.

THE HOSPITAL

is on the Saint Clair farm, (so-called) lying upon a large hill, which affords a pleasant prospect, and a fine salubrious air.

The several classes, which have already been carried through, have had it in a very favorable manner.

JOHN BOND.

Hampstead, Sept. 20, 1794.